To develop the new education organization, developers have to take on a leadership role to establish the mission, vision, purpose, and functional goals of the school. The shaping, enhancement, and maintenance of a school's culture are primary responsibilities of the school's leaders (Short Greer, 2002). Democratic education has its core ideals of inquiry, discourse, equity, authenticity, shared leadership, and service. Educators should remember that democracy and democratic education are not conditions that have been achieved, but ideals that everyone (students, parents, teachers, administrators, and the community) must stand for. Discussions of Part 2 of Book 4 collaborate on life-learning principles, concepts, and strategies. Although differences between life cycles have existed, it is essential to know how these differences impact learning of a variety age groups. Carroll model for Mastery learning (p. 254) is one of...
