Domesticating the Reformation: Protestant Best Sellers, Private Devotion, and the Revolution of English Piety (Hardback)

By Mary Hampson Patterson

Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, United States, 2006. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. While many post-revisionist studies focus on the deeply disruptive aspects of the Reformation's alternative devotional program, Patterson considers some of its more positive articulations. She reveals underexplored expressions of religious dissent by rescuing three key texts largely ignored despite their being certifiable best sellers in their day: Thomas Becon's The Sick Man's Slave, John Nordsen's A Pensive Man's Practice, and Edward Dering and John Mores' A Brief and Necessary Instruction for Householdiers.
