Externals implying, you see, Internals less saintly than human Pray speak, for between you and me Youre not a bad judge of woman! A jest--but a jest! . . Very true: Tis hardly becoming to jest, And that saint upstairs at rest---Her soul may be listening, too! Well may your visage turn yellow--I was always a brute of a fellow! To think how I doubted and doubted, Suspected, grumbled at, flouted That golden-haired angel--and solely Because she was zealous and holy! Noon and night and mor n She devoted herself to piety; Not that she seemed to scorn Or dislike her husbands society; But the claims of her soul superseded All that I asked for or needed, And her thoughts were afar away From the level of sinful clay, And she trembled if earthly matters Interfered with her aces and paters. Poor dove, she so fluttered in flying Above the dim vapors of hell---That she never thought of trying To save her husband as well. And while she was duly elected For place in the heavenly roll, I (brute that I was!) suspected Her manner of saving her soul. So, half for the fun of the thing, What did I (blasphemer!) but fling On my shoulders the gown of a monk--Whom I managed for that very day To get safely out of the way--And seat me, half sober, half drunk, With the cowl thrown over my face, In the father confessors place....
